Municipal Finances
A Handbook for Local Governments

From Detroit to Lahore, cities face financing challenges. In an ever urbanizing world, cities are important for national economies and social prosperity and stability, but they are also very vulnerable to any global financial crisis. Municipal Finances, A Handbook for Local Governments focuses on a wide range of topics of interest to cities from revenue management to self-assessment. This book covers what works and what doesn’t in municipal financing and what cities can do to get their finances in order.

OPENING REMARKS
Christine Kessides
Manager, Urban Practice
World Bank Institute, World Bank

MODERATOR
Abha Joshi-Ghani
Director, Knowledge Exchange and Learning
World Bank Institute, World Bank

AUTHORS
Catherine Farvacque-Vitkovic
Lead Urban Specialist, Urban Practice
World Bank Institute, World Bank

Mihaly Kopanyi
Municipal Finance Consultant

DISCUSSANTS
Anthony A. Williams
Former Mayor of Washington, D.C.
Chief Executive Officer, Federal City Council

Johannes Linn
Resident Senior Fellow, Emerging Markets Forum
Non-resident Senior Fellow, Brookings Institution

Ede Jorge Ijjasz-Vasquez
Sector Director, Sustainable Development
Latin America and the Caribbean Region, World Bank

CLOSING REMARKS
Sameh Wahba
Sector Manager, Urban Development and Resilience Unit
World Bank

Thursday, June 19, 2014
3:00 PM - 4:30 PM
Reception will follow

RSVP infoshopevents@worldbank.org

This event is sponsored by External and Corporate Relations, and the World Bank Institute’s Urban Practice