

Break-Out Group 2: Improving the Hot Spots Analysis in the Primer

Team Members: Ravi Sinha, World Bank

May 12-13, 2008

Reducing Vulnerability to Climate Change Impacts and Related Natural Disasters in East Asia

Scope of Discussion

- What would be the process by which your city would fill out each form?
- What do you anticipate would be the areas of focus for your city?
- Do the different forms highlight different issues? Which would be most useful in identifying priorities and monitoring implementation?
- What aspects are confusing and how can this self-assessment process be made easier to understand and fill out?
- Is the link to the rest of the primer of this self-assessment exercise clear?

Responses

- What would be the process by which your city would fill out each form?
- Hotspot team
- Forming multi-disciplinary team based on the principle of participatory governance
- Orientation workshop among stakeholders
- Template-filling workshop

Responses

- What do you anticipate would be the areas of focus for your city?
- Adopt a holistic perspective, but focus only on identified vulnerabilities

Responses

- Do the different forms highlight different issues? Which would be most useful in identifying priorities and monitoring implementation?
- Simplify the 3-page form from HML to YN, use 1 page form for attributes marked as yes

Responses

- What aspects are confusing and how can this self-assessment process be made easier to understand and fill out?
- The wording of some questions are either subjective or too vague
- The categories (HML) are difficult to assess
- There is a need for guide questions/examples along with explanations in accomplishing the form

Responses

- Is the link to the rest of the primer of this self-assessment exercise clear?
- It is a useful tool for an initial assessment