1. Sources: COSIT, CBI, IMF, and World Bank staff estimates.
 2. These are derived from estimates for gross domestic investment, gross domestic consumption and gross national savings, 2006 are projections.
 3. Fiscal accounts are consolidation of government budget, aid flows, and DFI spending. Data for 2004-2005 are preliminary outcomes; 2006 data are projections.
 4. Crude oil export revenues (excluding revenues of oil related state owned enterprises and a reduction in price subsidy on refined oil products transferred to the budget).
 5. Official price for "improved" gasoline in April 2006 was ID250 per liter. Dohuk, Sulaymaniyah: stations supply taxis only; Erbil: All gas stations closed.
 6. Export data from 1997 to 2002 from UN COMTRADE database as reported by trading partners. Data for 2003-2006 are COSIT and IMF staff estimates of crude oil export revenues (excluding revenues of oil-related state owned enterprises and a reduction in price subsidy on refined oil products transferred to the budget). Sources: IEA, MEES, OPEC, Iraqi Ministry of Oil. Data shown from June 1997 to May 2003 are exports under the UN Oil For Food Program (OFFP) and do not include border trade with Syria, Turkey and Jordan. Crude production figures are net of field injection and deliveries into storage.
 7. Weekly spot prices. Basra light crude is an average of prices to Europe and US; it represents over 90% of Iraqi oil exports. Iraq Kirkuk is Iraq Kirkuk netback price at US Gulf. OPEC countries spot price FOB is weighted at estimated export volume.
